An Endowed Resiliency Fund can provide perpetual financial support for your organization. Resiliency Funds allow nonprofits to receive consistent, predictable income, thereby empowering nonprofits to be sustainable and resilient, and better weather unpredictable fluctuations in donations, grants and other revenue streams.

The Community Foundation of Utah (CFU) can help you meet your mission by managing your investments, accepting non-cash gifts, and facilitating planned gifts. You enjoy the benefits of an endowment-like fund without the hassle of administration nor the restrictions of a traditional endowment. CFU can speak to your staff, board, or donors about how to build and use your fund to create a lasting source of support.

"Over the years, we have been building a financial future for UNA to weather the many challenges our economy will face. Establishing an endowment was the next natural step. This means we will eventually have financing (through dividends from the endowment) to cover critical administrative functions in the budget. It means that UNA will be around for decades to come!"
